

CURRENT AND COMPASS

If a current-carrying wire runs directly over a magnetic compass, the needle of the compass will

- a) not be affected by the current
- b) point in a direction perpendicular to the wire
- c) point in a direction parallel to the wire
- d) tend to point directly to the wire

